A STRONG TRADITION BEGINS

A FUTURE OF GLOBAL INNOVATION

Weiler Brush Company | WEILER | WEILER BRUSH COMPANY | weiler | Weiler | WEILER

1879

1898: Joseph E. Weiler began manufacturing polishing brushes for the jewelry industry in Pforzheim, Germany.

1879: Franz Swaty establishes a factory focused on mineral bonded abrasives.

1903: Franz Swaty's hone receives a gold medal in Köln.

1940

1944: Karl E. Weiler began manufacturing polishing brushes in a converted chicken coop in Franklin Square, Long Island, N.Y.

1950

1957: Relocation of the company from Long Island to its current location in Cresco, Pennsylvania.

1958: Establishment of Comet as a manufacturer of magnesite-based artificial abrasives.

1953: Positioned as the sole producer of abrasives in Yugoslavia.

1970

1971: Karl M. Weiler becomes president.

1970: Introduction of fire-resistant materials production intended for the foundry industry.

1979: Introduction of the 13131 industry standard "Stringer Bead" brush.

1979: Production start of reinforcement meshes for grinding wheels in Lože.

1980

1987: Introduction of composite construction: nylon abrasive "NYLOX" brushes.

1981: Beginning of vitrified bonded grinding wheels production.

Trial production of bakelite-bonded diamond grinding wheels.

1984: Beginning of glass fabrics weaving in Lože.

1988: Weiler launches Tiger Abrasives and manufactures flap discs in Cresco; the first to manufacture coated abrasive flap discs in the U.S.

1990

1992: Flap disc production begins.

1999: The first commercial subsidiary outside the USA opens – Weiler de México.

2000

2000: Weiler becomes the power brush market share leader in the USA with the acquisition of Anderson Products.

2004: Acquisition of ToroFlex Schleifmittel GmbH.

toroflex

2010

2010: Chris Weiler becomes president.

2010: Merger of the companies Swaty & Comet, resulting in the new company SwatyComet.

SwatyComet

2012: Rei Abrasives in Brazil acquired – expands manufacturing into bonded abrasives.

2015

2015: Weiler acquires SwatyComet in Slovenia.

2015: Introduction of Tiger X flap discs with industry-first X3 technology.

2016: Tiger brand extended to a full range of cutting and grinding products.

2017: Introduction of the new product brand Metalynx to the market.

2018: National innovation gold award for Ultracut Solid-Core Technology.

National innovation gold award for Metalynx ceramic.

2019: Pipeline specific products launched.

2020

2022: Weiler launches a full range of foundry products globally.

2021: Legacy brands discontinuation, moving forward focusing on Metalynx and Toroflex product brands in EMEA.

METALYNX | TOROFLEX

2023: Arjang "AJ" Roshan-Rouz is chosen as CEO to lead the next chapter of growth.

2023: Weiler expands global footprint by opening a production facility in Juárez, Mexico.

WEILER SWATY COMET